At a time when immigration debates are more contentious than ever, could the Utah Compact be a model for fixing America's broken immigration system? At a ceremony at the Utah state Capitol in November 2010, law enforcement, business, community and religious leaders came together to sign the Utah Compact on Immigration. Immigration debates in Utah had become caustic, and the document was intended to change the tone of the conversation by focusing on the common ground shared between the state's diverse decision makers — including a desire to treat immigrants with respect, keep families together and focus on deporting serious criminals. The approach made national headlines and in March 2019, the same Utah leaders reconvened and re-signed the document to reaffirm their commitment to "common sense" immigration solutions.

Speakers:

This document launched by Utah Governor Gary Herbert in December 2020, is a declaration of five principles and actions that invite cross-discipline commitment to be anti-racist and advance equal opportunity for all in Utah communities. It is founded on the principles that all people are created equal and that all Utahns must have a truly equal opportunity to prosper. It explicitly acknowledges racism as a system of ideas, beliefs, practices, structures, and policies that give some people greater opportunity than others. Those that sign the document have pledged to work toward priorities and laws that create equal opportunity and access, and to foster communities of respect.

Speakers:

Breakout Groups

Delegation will break into self-selected breakout groups to take a closer look at one of five different Salt Lake City Promising Practices or unique stories. Options are listed below.

- A. How Salt Lake Does the Work to be Welcoming City & Integrate Immigrant Workforce into the Community. Guests will visit the Spice Kitchen Food Service Accelerator focusing on helping immigrants and refugees use their native cuisine to launch their own catering, restaurant or food truck business and then visit the LDS Humanitarian Center where immigrants and refugees learn skills that can be used in regional businesses, learn English and receive other services to help them and their families get on their feet and engage in the regional community and Salt Lake City economy.
Group will leave by bus from lunch venue to Spice Kitchen Incubator at 751 West 800 South, Salt Lake City, UT 84104, and then visit LDS Humanitarian Center at 1665 S Bennett Road, Salt Lake City, UT 84104.
- B. Deeper Conversation & Exchange with Salt Lake Leaders on Regional Transit & Transportation Infrastructure Planning & Funding.
Group will go into a deeper dive on how elected officials, transportation agencies, and the business community coordinated and worked together to develop and fund a regional transportation plan and are continuing to work together for sustainable growth in the Salt Lake region.
Venue: Group will walk from lunch venue to Utah Transit Authority Frontlines Headquarters at 669 West 200 South, Salt Lake City, UT 84101.
- C. Deeper Conversation & Exchange on Utah Compact for Racial Equity & Work of the Utah Center for Economic Opportunity & Belonging.
